In an emergency the manufacturer of Limburger cheese was forced to use strategy with a shipment. Ordinarily his product went in special cars, but in this instance no car was available and the order must be filled. Two hundred pounds of the fragrant comestible was put in a rough, oblong box, and taken to the railroad baggage-room. Then the manufacturer bought a ticket for himself and the box, and entered the train. At the first stop he went ahead to the baggage-car to see that there was no trouble. He stood by the box in a disconsolate attitude and shaded his eyes with his hand. The baggage-man was sympathetic. "A relative?" he asked. "Yes," answered the manufacturer; "it is my brother."

"Well," said the railroad man, philosophically, "you have one consolation. He's dead, all right."

"I have here an opera," announced the robust composer, "which will be the greatest production of the century. It is called 'Paradise.' 'Paradise!' roared the impresario; "man, do you realize what it would cost for scenery?" "Yes," answered the composer calmly, "but do you realize what would be saved on costumes?"—Town Topics.
